

Rosh Pinah Primary School

Charging & Remissions Policy

Reviewed and Revised: November 2023

Due for ratification by Governing Body: July 2018

The 1988 Education Act draws a distinction between the term "charges" which are considered to be obligatory and "Voluntary Contributions" which are self explanatory.

When organising school trips or visits to enrich the curriculum and the educational experience of the children, the school invites parents to contribute to the cost. All costs are voluntary. If we do not receive sufficient voluntary contributions we may cancel a trip. If a trip goes ahead, it may include children whose parents have not paid any contribution. We do not treat these children differently from any others.

Subsidies may be available from various community support funds and in the case of financial hardship; we encourage parents to talk in the first instance with their Synagogue Administrator who may know whether funds exist within the local community to support families experiencing financial hardship.

The school does not make a profit on school trips or activities. We aim to cover the costs of trips and sometimes an activity runs at a loss due to lack of contributions. Where this is the case, we will review the activity and the activity may be withdrawn in the future.

Inclusion

At Rosh Pinah our values embrace inclusion. We aim to ensure that we promote the inclusion of all members of the school including children, parents, staff, governors and the local community according to Orthodox Jewish practice. Our framework is based on suitable learning challenges, responding to each pupil's diverse learning needs and overcoming potential barriers to learning so that all stakeholders in all areas of school life can participate as fully as possible. The ethos of inclusion is a whole school policy and will therefore permeate all aspects of school life.
